

It's time to explain that things are unfair,
And there's a lot of history to clean up and repair.

But if we work together, stand up and stand strong,
We can help bring change along.

Listen and learn what you don't understand.
Offer to give a helping hand.

It doesn't matter the color of your skin,
Who you love, your gender, or what religion you believe in.

People should be treated with love and respect
Given equal opportunities with no prejudice effect.

Because Black Lives Matter across the world and the USA.
So, what will you do to make change today?

Always remember to keep love in your heart
I promise you this is the best place to start.

It's time to change that things are unfair.
It's time to stand and show that you care.
